Who was Saint Andrew?

Andrew was the first of the twelve apostles and the brother of Saint Peter. He was crucified on an “X” shaped cross; this is why the X is associated with St. Andrew’s societies all over the world.

Andrew became the Patron Saint of Scotland as the result of a vision. The King of the Scots was preparing for battle when, in the sky, he saw clouds form an X—the symbol of St. Andrew. The Scots won their battle that day and from then on Andrew became the protector and Patron Saint of Scotland. The feast of St. Andrew is celebrated every November 30.
